

HUDSON VALLEY ANIMAL HOSPITAL

Dec. 1, 2001

To Whom It May Concern:

It is my understanding that Shari Bach is applying for status for a non-profit organization to help animals.

I have been the veterinarian for Shari Bach's animals for 15 years.

In all that time, I have not met a more committed individual to the care and well being of not only her animals but also animals in general. I cannot think of a person more suited to being part of a non-profit foundation for the care and rescue of animals. I have talked to her in the past regarding her many efforts to place homeless animals and what to do to help the homeless animals that have been left to wander.

I know that she has rescued animals and placed them not only in other homes, but her own also. She has donated food and blankets to animal shelters in the area, and she has fed the strays that no one seems to care about.

I am so sure that she is the right person for this undertaking, that I have told her that I am willing to donate time to her foundation when she is ready. It will be a pleasure to be of service to such a valuable undertaking.

Please let me know if you need any more information about this remarkable person.

Peter A. Segall, D.V.M.